Sinn is renowned for developing and creating technologies for special watches which serve as high-quality instruments for a wide range of professional applications. Consequently, it comes as no surprise that many avid hunters have turned to Sinn Spezialuhren over the years asking us to make a special hunter's watch.

As with all watch designs, the first step involved examining the specific requirements and challenges and then coming up with a solution. Sinn's engineers and master watchmakers approached the experts at the prestigious Paul Paray publishing house to avail of their knowledge and to combine expertise.

From our intensive discussions, a number of key points became clear. At the core of all of our observations was the idea that the hunter's watch should form an integral part of the hunting equipment, almost like the rifle or binoculars. As with the rifle and the optics, with the hunter's watch we focus on maximum quality, reliability, resilience and readability under all conditions – whatever the weather and whatever the light. Handcrafted in small batches by our master watchmakers: made in Germany.
